SOME Years have now elapsed since J. LACKINGTON first observed, and began seriously to reflect, that where Credit was given, most Bills were not paid within Six Months ; many not within Twelve Months ; some not in Two Years ; and that others were never paid. The Losses sustained by the Interest of Money in long Credit, and by those Bills that were not paid at all ; the Expence of keeping Accounts ; and Inconveniences attending the not having always ready Money to lay out in Trade to the best Advantage ; together with the Loss of Time and Trouble in collecting the several Debts ; all conspired fully to convince him, that if he could once establish a ready Money Business, without any exceptions, he would be enabled to sell every Article prodigiously cheap ; and though the Idea was by many laughed at, as chimerical, he was resolved to make the Experiment ; which he accordingly began, by distinctly marking, in every Book, the lowest Price, without any Abatement.

It is with the utmost Gratitude to his particular Customers, and the Public, that he acknowledges his Plan has succeeded far, very far, beyond his own self-flattering Expectations ; and he believes his Customers in general will do him the Justice to declare, that the great Increase of Business has not caused him to neglect their Favours, or to advance his Prices ; on the contrary, as his Sale has become more extensive, additional Assistants have been procured ; and it is presumed, that Seventeen Persons more attentive and obliging are not to be found in any one Shop. As his Returns have been rapid, and large, he has thereby been enabled to make Purchases in the same Proportion, and consequently much cheaper, which he has constantly sold for a trifling Profit. It being Matter of Surprize to many, how he has been enabled to sell so much cheaper than others, the above Reasons, he presumes, will fully solve that apparent Difficulty.

Since, then, it cannot but be obvious, that ready Money is the grand Pillar which supports his Business, while his Profits are so excessive small, it is hoped that no Person, however respectable, respectable, will be offended with him, for invariably adhering to that Rule ; or his not sending Books into the Country till they are paid for ; or with his Men, for taking them back from any House in Town, except the same Condition be complied with ; since they are obliged, by one general Order, to return with the Money or the Goods.

In purchasing Libraries, or Parcels of Books, he has adopted the following Method, by which the Seller is sure to receive the utmost Value for his Property, although he may himself be unacquainted with it's Worth. When called upon to inspect any Library, or Parcel of Books, he carefully examines them ; if desired to fix a Price, he mentions at a Word the utmost he will give for them, which he is always careful shall be as much as any Bookseller can possibly afford to give ; but if the Seller entertains any sort of Doubt respecting the Price offered, and chuses to try other Booksellers, he pays Five per Cent. for the Valuation of the Books ; and as he thus knows what J. L. has valued them at, he tries among the Trade, and when he finds that he cannot get any greater Sum, on returning to J. L. he may receive the Price first offered, together with the Five per Cent. which was paid for the Valuation.

To Sellers, who fix a Price on their own Books, no Charge is made.

On these Terms, he solicits the Public for a Continuance of those Favours already so amply conferred on him, and which it shall ever be his Ambition to merit, by the most diligent Attention to their Commands.

J. LACKINGTON assures the Public, that the above very interesting Novel is the Production of a very respectable Lady;—is sorry that her Timidity should prevent her Name from appearing in the Title-page of a Work that does honour to her Judgment, her Taste, and her Feeling; and, at the same Time, discovers the Goodness of her Heart.

ICHOGRAPHIC DISTRIBUTIONS OF SMALL VILLAS,

Chiefly upon Economical Principles, in seven Classes; occasional Remarks by Jose Mac Packe, a Bricklayer's Labourer. Part the First. Containing Twelve Designs, 8vo. 5s. in Boards, and 6s. bound in Calf.

THE MONTHLY REVIEW ON THE PRECEDING ARTICLE:

“Where this honest Man got his Knowledge and Taste we cannot say, but certainly for a Bricklayer's Labourer, he has an uncommon Share of both. In Truth, we shrewdly suspect, that his Master's Master has had the principal Hand in this Work. The Remarks are written with Smartness and Humour; the Plans are very judiciously laid down, and clearly explained; both may be of great use to those who wish for a little Advice, besides what they may purchase from Builders by Profession, before they dip their Fingers in Mortar.”

" The

"The Hero of the present Publication, is the well known JAMES LACKINGTON, who now deals in Books by Thousands and Ten Thousands; and who, from his original Situation in Life, seemed to have been condemned to pass his Days in Ignorance; at least, the utmost that was to be expected from it was, to half read and half spell his Testament. But Minds of a peculiar Stamp are superior to all Situations, and burst resistless through Barriers which are insurmountable to the Herd of Mankind.

"As an Author, Mr. LACKINGTON is commendable; he is entertaining, and he is useful. The curious Anecdotes he has interspersed, his Account of Methodism, and indeed the general Variety of his Narrative, keep up the Attention; while the plain and undissembled Manner in which he relates the Means of his Success will instruct others, and act at once as a Spur and a Guide to their Industry." English Review, Nov. 1791.

"LACKINGTON'S MEMOIRS contain Instruction and Amusement. His Vanity sits easy upon him—Open and sincere in his constant Confession of the original Penury of his Situation, even Envy may pardon him for escaping from a Shoemaker's Stool to a Carriage and Four Thousand a Year. His Pictures of Low Life are neither uninstructional nor uninteresting. That of Mr. LACKINGTON'S Mother supporting Eleven Children by her own Labour, working Nineteen Hours in Twenty-four, and living on Vegetables, while she furnished her numerous Offspring with rather better Fare, is more pleasing than any Scene in a Sentimental Novel.—The Book seems an honest, faithful Narrative." Critical Review, April 1792.

"From these Memoirs Religionists may learn how Enthusiasm is supported; and Tradesmen, of every Description, how to acquire immense Fortunes by small Profits. Particulars of the Methodists are here first laid open." Gentleman's Magazine, Dec. 1791.

"Mr. LACKINGTON is very ample and diverting in his Account of the Methodists, whom he has deserted.—Mr. LACKINGTON has, with good Sense and good Humour, made as much of Occurrences in Life, as any one of a better Education could do; and he appears justly to merit the Prosperity which he now enjoys—Long may he enjoy it." Monthly Review, Feb. 1792.

"In our Review for November 1791, we took Notice of the First Edition of these entertaining and eccentric Memoirs. It gave us sensible Pleasure to announce to the World the Progress of successful Industry. By the early Appearance of this improved Edition, we are in Hopes that LACKINGTON'S Memoirs have become the Vade Mecum of every sober and thinking young Man of Business; and that his Book, like Elijah's Mantle, will communicate at least a Portion of his Spirit to the rising Generation."

"It may be necessary to add, as it marks the Author's Determination to live by small Profits, bound by Industry, and clasped by Oeconomy—though the Additions to the Life amount to 152 Pages, and it is printed upon a fine Paper; yet is Sold, in it's present State, for 5s. the Price of the first Edition." English Review, July 1792.

A SHORT

BOOKS printed for and sold by J. LACKINGTON

SHORT RELATION OF THE R I V E R N I L E.

Of its Source and Current; and other Curiosities.

BY AN EYE-WITNESS, WHO LIVED MANY YEARS IN ABYSSINIA.

✻ This Work was translated from the Portuguese by order of, and printed for, the ROYAL SOCIETY of London, in 1669: — And as Lord Brouncker, Sir Isaac Newton, Dr. Barrow, Dr. Wallis, Mr. Gregory, Dr. Halley, and other learned Men, were Members of the Royal Society at that Time, no Doubt can be made of the Authenticity.

The above Work being very scarce, it was judged that a new Edition of it would be very acceptable to the Public, and the more so, as a late Traveller arrogates to himself the unique Merit of discovering the Head of the NILE, and takes uncommon Pains to make his Readers believe, that no other Person had ever arrived at these so much famed Sources; but it is very remarkable, that this modern Traveller's Account of these celebrated Fountains are nearly in the very Words of this old Work—the Inference is obvious! To this new Edition is prefixed a new Preface,

CIRCULATING LIBRARIES.

J. Lackington not only supplies Circulating Libraries with what Additions may be wanting to complete such Collections, but also furnishes entire Libraries at a very short notice, on lower terms than any other Person in Great Britain can do. This will easily be credited by such as are acquainted with his mode of doing business, and when they are informed, that he has, on an average, Five Hundred Thousand Volumes constantly on Sale, of both new and second-hand Books.

Such as are in want of Instruction relative to the establishing and conducting of Circulating Libraries, are welcome to the best that J. Lackington can give them; and when the choice of Books for any Library are left to him, he faithfully discharges that trust by selecting such Articles as are best adapted to the purpose intended, and in proportion to the sum of Money advanced, whether it is Twenty pounds or a Thousand.

Whether Public or Private Education is best calculated to form a Man for Society? Is Refinement of Manners to be considered as being most conducive to Virtue? Is an Union with Ireland to be wished for? Is Government bound in honour to Support American Refugees? Which is most hurtful to Society, the Spendthrift or the Miser? Which is most apt to procure general Estimation, the Reality of Virtue or the Appearance of it? Whether the Calamities of the Empire are to be attributed more to the Intrigues of the Cabinet, the Venality of Parliament, or the Servility and Profligacy of the People? Which is more detrimental to the Constitution, Prerogative as it stood before the Revolution, or the Influence of the Crown as it has arisen since? Is it agreeable to the Maxims of Sound Policy, for any Protestant Government to tolerate Popery? Which is more eligible, a State of Liberty without Property, or a State of Property without Liberty? - N. B. The English Reviewers have filled seven Pages on the above Article, the following is an Extract:

“ The Hero of the present Publication, is the well known JAMES “ LACKINGTON, who now deals in Books by Thousands and “ Ten Thousands; and who from his original Situation in Life,
 “ seemed to have been condemned to pass his Days in Ignorance;
 “ at least the utmost that was to be expected from it was to half “ read and half spell his Testament. But minds of a peculiar “ stamp are superior to all Situations, and burst resistless “ through barriers which are insurmountable to the herd of “ mankind.

“ As an Author, Mr. LACKINGTON is commendable; he is “ entertaining, and he is useful. The curious Anecdotes he “ has interspersed, his Account of Methodism, and indeed
 “ the general Variety of his Narrative keep up the Atten“ tion; while the plain and undissembled Manner in which he “ relates the Means of his Success will instruct others, and act at “ once as a spur and a guide to their industry.”

ENGLISH REVIEW, Nov. 1791.

- N. B. The preceding Work was first translated from the Portuguese by Order of, and printed for the Royal Society of London in 1669. And as Lord Brounker, Sir Isaac Newton, Dr. Barrow, Dr. Wallis, Mr. Gregory, Doctor Halley, and other learned Men, were Members of the Royal Society at that Time, no Doubt can be made of its Authenticity. The above Work being very scarce, it was judged that a new edition of it would be very acceptable to the Public; and the more so, as a late Traveller arrogates to himself the unique Merit of discovering the Head of the Nile. And takes uncommon Pains to make his Readers believe that no other Person had ever arrived at these so much famed Sources. But it is very remarkable, that this modern Traveller's Account of these celebrated Fountains, are nearly in the very Words of this Old Work; the Inference is obvious. To this Edition is prefixed a New Preface

* * The above Tales of the inimitable Moralist, were originally published in the Paris Mercury.

“ Seldom has Moral Wisdom been arrayed in a more charming Dress than it here wears; he has skilfully selected the Characters, the Situation, the Incidents in Human Life, which are the most generally interesting, and has combined them into some of the sweetest, happiest Forms that fancy ever created; on the Realities of Life, he, by some wonderful art unknown to all but himself, at least, if we except the Author of the Vicar of Wakefield, has conferred a magic power to please.— Two or three Tales, by other Authors, have been introduced into these volumes, which however, can hardly do more than serve as foils to Marmontell.

N. B. The preceding "Watts's Psalms and Hymns" is a new edition; when bound together, a little more than half an inch thick, about four inches and a half long, and two inches and a half wide; neatly and correctly printed. The sale being so great of the former very small edition has induced J. B. and J. L. to exert themselves to render this superior.

J. Lackington assures the Public; that the above very interesting Novel is the Production of a very Respectable Lady—is sorry that her Timidity should prevent her Name from appearing in the Title Page of a Work that does Honour to her Judgment, her Taste and her Feelings, and at the same Time discovers the Goodness of her Heart.
